

Mareike EberzEconomic Affairs Officer, Office of the Executive Secretary, Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) in Santiago, Chile

Ms. Mareike Eberz is a sustainable development practitioner with fifteen years of experience within the United Nations, driven by advancing the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development with its 17 Sustainable Development Goals at its heart. In her current role within the Office of the Executive Secretary at ECLAC, she works directly with national and local governments across Latin America and the Caribbean to support the regional implementation of the SDGs and guide the preparation of Voluntary National and Local Reviews.

Throughout her career, Mareike has focused deeply on gender equality, youth participation and building meaningful partnerships across different sectors. She brings broad experience from across the UN system, having served with the Executive Office of the Secretary-General (EOSG), UN-NGLS, and the Department of Public Information in New York; UNDP and UNV in Ecuador; UN Women in the Dominican Republic; and the ILO in Peru, among others. Her perspective is further enriched by past roles within the German government, NGOs, academia, the private sector, and the media.

Mareike connects easily across cultures and works fluently in German, English, and Spanish. She holds dual Master's degrees in International Relations and Development Policy and Media and Communication, complemented by postgraduate studies in Public Relations and Indigenous Studies at Bond University in Australia.
